'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Often wondered just what thrill a peeping tom gets out of looking into decent people's windows at night.

Musolini, the Duce, Ace and Jack of Italy, declares that Italy doesn't want war and never will want war.

Let's see him tell that to France.

Ever notice the change Macdonald avenue takes after school is out?

Especially noticed it the other night while enroute to the office from downtown.

School boys and girls are scattered in groups all over the sidewalks, talking and laughing.

An old Ford car, painted a poisonous green, rolls down the avenue. Six school boys are sitting in the machine, with their feet cocked up, singing.

A Chrysler sedan, driven by a dark haired boy stops at the corner and two school girls, both pretty, get out.

A grammar school boy is pushing his coaster wagon down the street.

On the back of the wagon is mounted a box. And in this box sits a fox terrier puppy, with its ears cocked up.

Four kids are at play in an open lot, booting around an old football that has seen better days.

At the city hall tennis courts boys and girls bat the rubber ball about. A waiting list of other tennis players sit upon the benches.

Four high school boys, attired in dirty cords, their noses skinned, walk down the avenue.

It only takes a glance to show you that they are high school football players.

Never will there be such a thrill as your first high school football game.

The telephone company has passed out new directories.

The first telephone number in the Richmond book is the A. T. and S. F. railroad, which number is Richmond 2698.

And the last name in the book is O. L. Zuercher, whose number is Richmond 3.

Miss Wiley said that Kelley induced her to visit his home last Saturday, ostensibly to meet his mother. The woman who greeted them left her alone with Kelley and he forcibly attacked her, she claimed. Miss Wiley was said to be the daughter of a well known composer now in Florida.

Kelley's preliminary hearing was set for October 10 and he was released under $2000 bonds.

Arrest Of Slayer Of Man, Girl Seen

STOCKTON, Oct. 2.—A theory of underworld justice today entered the search for the murderer of Sophie Stentz, 19 year old Stockton part-time school girl, and R. L. Morris, 46, rent car driver. F. P. Bush of Sacramento stated that Morris had told him a week ago in Merced that he was a marked man and feared death at the hands of an underworld gunman. Bush arrived here today from Sacramento to testify.

The theory that the jealousy of a boy friend of Miss Stentz was the reason for the crime is also being entertained by the police, who are now carrying on a secret search that is expected hourly to result in arrest of the murderer.

ASHES WILL BE SENT HOME

With a weeping father, a minister and two employees of the Curry Funeral parlor as the only witnesses, simple funeral services for Gordon Stewart Northcott, who was hanged at San Quentin prison yesterday morning, were held at the Berkeley crematory shortly after one o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Rev. Larry Newgent, Los Angeles evangelist, officiated at the services, and the body was cremated immediately after.

Besides Newgent, the only witnesses of the rapid services were the hanged man's father, Cyrus Northcott, and Tony Silva and Henry Goodman, attaches of the Bert Curry funeral parlors.

Carnations Used
A last request of the doomed man's, that white roses be placed on his coffin, was not fulfilled, the Curry parlor being unable to obtain the buds.

As a substitute, white carnations were used, the father removing one from the casket, and Rev. Newgent taking another, which he will give to Northcott's mother, Mrs. Louise Northcott, who is serving a life term for murder in San Quentin prison.

Although the rites were conducted in a secretive and rapid manner, it is believed the ashes of the convicted murderer will be sent to Bladsworth, Saskatchewan, Canada, where Northcott was born.

Body Not Touched
Rumors that an autopsy of the body was to be performed by three San Francisco physicians, were floated by Silva and Goodman, who, in a statement to the press, declared the body had not been touched between the time it was placed in the casket at the prison, and the time of incineration.

So rapid was the removal of the body to the crematory, no (Continued on Page 8)

MAN INJURED BY WIRE SHOCK

A Richmond fire department crew, directed by Fire Chief W. P. Cooper, yesterday afternoon worked for more than ten minutes with a pulmotor, before they were able to revive T. Hampton, 40, a laborer.

Hampton was severely shocked when he came in contact with a high tension wire near the Ford plant. He had been at work digging a ditch when he touched the wire. The shock rendered Hampton unconscious. A physician was called and he summoned the fire department pulmotor crew.

Through the appliance of the device, Hampton was revived and was taken to Hospital Richmond, where he now is.

DREDGERS ARE BROUGHT HERE FOR PROJECT

Work on the construction of a seawall on the Berkeley Waterfront company's holdings on the Richmond waterfront will start this morning, it was learned yesterday. The seawall will start from a point south of the Alameda county line to the new Ford plant site at the Richmond inner harbor.

Dredgers owned by the Daniels construction company, of San Francisco, the contractors, were moved across the bay yesterday morning to the site of the work.

The first phase of the project is expected to be started at about eight o'clock this morning.

The awarding of the contract for the work was first learned on Wednesday morning when the Berkeley Waterfront company filed at Martinez notice of its contract with the Daniels construction company.

The sea wall will be 12,600 feet in length, and will be built at a cost of $329,000.

The wall will follow the lines of a proposed shipping canal. The project, it is expected, will be five years in the building.

Although officials of the Berkeley Waterfront company refused to comment yesterday, it is believed here that the sea wall and canal is in preparation for the location of the western terminal of the Great Northern railroad on the local waterfront.

It is understood that the Berkeley company is owned by the railroad, which is seeking a terminal site in this district.

Zuta Slayer Suspect Held

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—UP—Danny Stanton, beau brummel of the Chicago underworld gun crew, was held without bail tonight for the murder of Jack Zuta, vice lord, who in turn, was credited with having engineered the slaying of Alfred J. Lingie, Chicago Tribune reporter.

After being arraigned before Chief Justice Harry Olsen, Stanton was held in jail, awaiting arrival of a warrant from Wisconsin where Zuta was slain at a summer resort dance hall.

Stanton is the second gangster now behind bars, awaiting a murder trial. The other, Frank Foster, is held on an indictment charging him with the murder of Lingie.

They will visit Infantry schools, army war college, primary and advanced flying schools, field artillery schools, command and general staff schools, the tank school and the United States Military Academy.

Werner is commanding general of the first division of the German army, while Kuhlenthal is a member of the Reichswehr Ministerium.

REPORT ON WORK IS MADE

First steel for the new Ford plant on the Richmond inner harbor was erected yesterday morning by the Herrick Steel and Iron company of Oakland.

The first piece of steel to be erected was a column at the north end of the assembly building, according to officials at the local plant site.

Today more steel will be erected, officials said yesterday.

Some delay has been experienced at the local plant, due to the fact that all of the steel ordered for the job has not arrived.

For the past two weeks men have been at work pouring the concrete bases for the column, it was said. This concrete is hard enough now for the steel work.

The steel work will be continued for several weeks.

This will be followed by the pouring of the concrete floors and the brick work. A sub-contract for the supplying of bricks has been let to a local company, thus providing work for Richmond men.

The work at the plant is going forward as rapidly as possible, it was stated.

It is expected that by July or August of next year, new Ford cars will be turned out at the Richmond plant.

RODEO MAN KILLS SELF AT HIS HOME

RODEO, Oct. 2.—John Oscar Hagan, 54, today shot and killed himself, according to sheriff's officers.

Hagan had been suffering from a stomach ailment for some time. This fact was believed to have been the cause of his act.

Hagan, who was employed by the Union Oil company, was at his home here today. He had been complaining of illness.

After dinner he went into his back yard, and sat down in a rocking chair. A few seconds later the family heard a shot fired. When they rushed to the back yard they found Hagan with a pistol in his hand, dead. He had shot himself through the head, police say.

Coroner Aubrey Wilson, of Richmond, was summoned to the home and launched an investigation. An inquest into the death will be held in the near future.

Hagan was a native of Missouri. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Ada W. Hagan; two sons, Herbert H. and Robert O. Hagan and three sisters, Mrs. Claude See, of Oakland; Mrs. Nettie Grisham, of Berkeley and Mrs. Ada Peck, of Reddy.

The body was removed to the Wilson and Kratzer chapel in Richmond, where funeral services are pending.

Clare D. Horners Return From Trip

Clare D. Horner, local attorney, returned to Richmond yesterday after a three weeks trip in the east.

Horner made the journey via train, and drove back to Richmond from Ohio, meeting his wife at Rockford, Ill., where they visited relatives.

The local couple report an enjoyable trip, returning by way of the Lincoln highway through Nebraska, to Denver, and then via the Old Santa Fe trail through New Mexico and into California.

A highlight of the trip, Horner said, was a visit to the old cliff dwellings in New Mexico.

Disabled Vet Attacks Briand

PARIS, Oct. 2.—UP—A badly disabled French war veteran, hysterical with hate, bashed through the crowd at the Gare d'Orly to night and vainly sought to attack Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, as he stepped off the train from Geneva.

"You miserable Briand!" the man shouted as he dashed through the crowd. "You're bringing France to war."

Briand halted in surprise. The crowd rapidly formed about him, friendly and protecting. The man could not get through, and before he could get away Gendarmes had seized him and hurried him away.

The foreign minister, returning from the league of nations to face serious political problems at home possibly involving his continuation in the cabinet, proceeded unperturbed to a waiting motor car and drove home.

His automobile was escorted by a squadron of police cars, but he made the trip without incident.

POLICE HUNT DRIVER OF CAR

Peter Andrew Hagen, 77, of El Cerrito, is dead—another victim of a hit-run driver.

El Cerrito police last night were searching for the driver of the machine who hit Hagen and ran over his body, crushing the life out of the aged man.

There were no witnesses of the fatal accident, which is believed to have occurred in front of the El Cerrito postoffice.

Body Found
M. W. Veale, 185 Avis Drive, El Cerrito, told police that he came along San Pablo avenue at about 6:20 last night and he heard a noise, that sounded like a machine hitting an object. He said he saw a machine drive away, but did not get the license number.

Rushing to the street corner, Veale saw Hagen lying upon the street, unconscious. At this time H. L. Davis, 325 Everett street, El Cerrito drove up his machine and aided Davis in placing the aged man in his car. He then drove him to an Albany hospital.

Hagen died at seven o'clock, as the result of a possible fractured skull and internal injuries.

Body Here
The body has been brought to the Wilson and Kratzer chapel, where funeral services are pending.

Hagen was born in San Francisco and came to El Cerrito when he was a babe in arms. He had resided in that town for more than 75 years.

Hagen was the brother of Louis Hagen, of Walnut Creek. He leaves a son, Russell; a daughter, Mrs. Beatrice White; two nieces, Mrs. A. L. Brodt, of Albany; Mrs. Armenta Destour of Berkeley; and two nephews, Ernest E. Belfis of El Cerrito and Frank Belfis of Oakland.

PLANE RAIDS COAL MINE

MADISONVILLE, Ky., Oct. 2.—UP—Coal mining operations stopped near Madisonville tonight after an airplane bombed the shafts with incendiary missiles.

It was the second mine bombing by air in western Kentucky in two months.

Today's raider swooped over the mines, dropping flaming bombs as he went. None of the mines was damaged, but one of the bombs narrowly missed the Ross Coal company's number one shaft. Another of the missiles struck the barn of James Smith, destroying it.

Residents saw the ship plainly in the semi-darkness before dawn, but could not make out its markings. All mine operations in the vicinity stopped. Only a few workmen appeared and they were heckled by strikers picketing roads leading to the shafts. The bombing was held by authorities to be an outgrowth of the strike which has been in progress for weeks.

ODD FELLOWS NINE PLAYS SUNDAY

The Richmond Odd Fellows will be facing probably their toughest opposition of the season Sunday afternoon when they give battle to the Neri nine of Berkeley at Kinney Park in West Berkeley.

The local lodgemen will have a large order to fill Sunday in their clash with the Neri boys. The Neri squad is composed mostly of former Saunders club athletes who have figured prominently in eastbay baseball in past seasons. The Berkeley athletes, who just returned from the American baseball league, and are now prospects for the Pacific coast league, the strongest young ones in the game in this district are to be found on the Neri outfit, and they may be reckoned upon to meet the local lodgemen on even ground.

The Richmond lodgemen have pursued their triumphant way through a successful season, and now feel in the mood to take any opponents down the line. They have done so exceedingly often during the year, and there seems to be no reason why their chances in Sunday's game aren't as strong as they have been in all their past victorious tussles.

Sid Martin, a new acquisition of the Odd Fellows, will be on the mound for the Richmond linkers, while Bill Gualdoni, a veteran of the lodgemen, will be behind the platter. Carl Kamb will be held in reserve on the pitching staff of the Richmond aggregation.

The interesting contest will be played at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at Kinney Park. The park is situated about three blocks north of University avenue and four blocks south of San Pablo avenue.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—UP—Hopes of the Los Angeles Angels to win the second half of the Pacific Coast league race were dimmed today when Portland scored eight runs in the sixth inning and five times in the next two frames to beat the Angels, 15 to 10. Seven pitchers worked in the game, four for Los Angeles.

Athletics Beat Cards In Second Game Of World Series Contest

SHIBE PARK, Philadelphia, Oct. 2.—UP—The big guns of the Philadelphia Athletics boomed out early and effectively on the eastern world series front today and the Mackmen's drive toward another championship mowed down the St. Louis Cardinals in the second game by the score of 6 to 1.

With big George Earnshaw clipping the Red Birds' wings in a brilliant exhibition of pitching, Cochrane, Simmons, Foxx and Dykes pounded out the same sort of extra base hits which won the opening game and hammered home all the Philadelphia runs in the first four innings.

When the teams departed for St. Louis tonight, the triumphant A's appeared well on their way to the same sort of one-sided victory which has characterized world series of the past three years. It looked as if nothing and certainly not these hapless Cardinals—could keep the Mackmen from winning their fifth world championship.

The combination of splendid fast ball pitching plus the big punch in the bats of the Philadelphia sluggers completely routed the National league representatives this afternoon, while some 33,000 fans looked on and scarcely troubled to cheer.

Earnshaw, flinging his fast one past the bats of the Red Birds, allowed but six hits and struck out eight men. All the long sunny afternoon, he kept the St. Louis batters popping up ineffectually and only an unexpected home run by George Watkins robbed him of a shut-out.

Flint Rhem essayed to stop the Athletics and was driven from the box before the fourth inning was over.

Damage Done
After the playboy of the Carolina shad departed, the Mackmen did not make another hit and got but two men on base, but the damage was done.

Jim Lindsey, who relieved him, was taken out for a pinch hitter in the seventh and Sylvester Johnson finished the game.

Extra Bases
Once again, there was a marked economy of hitting on the part of the world's champions. They made only seven hits but four of these were rousing blows for extra bases including a home run in the first. The Athletics have made 11 runs on 12 hits, proving that the boys are no prodigious wasters. Every time a Philadelphia batter connected safely, he either continued on around the bases to score or drove home a teammate or two.

This established a new world series record of some sort, while several others were recorded by the mathematically minded. Frankie Frisch bounced a double off the left field wall in the first inning for his 43rd world series hit, a new record, while the Cardinals, by making only three assists, improved, if you call it that, upon the previous low mark of five in a game.

The Athletics themselves had only five assists, as Earnshaw kept the St. Louis batters popping flies for the first few innings. There were no balls to be retrieved from the ground by the Mackmen's first line of defense.

Ragged Play
As Gabby Street said after the game, Earnshaw would have won for any club today. With George and his side partner, "Lefty" Grove presumably ready for duty in St. Louis, there is a distant possibility that Shibe park can be swept out and closed up for the winter.

This second game was marked by some ragged play in the third inning, when both teams contributed two errors and might have been charged with several more.

The Athletics had counted twice in the first, on Cochrane's homer over the right field wall. Simmons' sing a and a spanking double off the left field wall from the bat of Jimmy Foxx. George Watkins got one run back with his homer in the second, the only effective St. Louis wallop of the afternoon. Mancuso beat out a hit and Gelbert bounced a single over second but Rhem fanned and Douhit, who has been weak in the pinches both days, popped the first pitch to Bishop.

Then came the terrible third, which demonstrated not only that championship ball clubs can play like school boys at times but served to bring out the essential difference between the two ball clubs.

Fumble Made
In the Cardinals' half, Adams failed off with a fly to Bing Miller, and Frisch rapped one down to Boley, who had been fielding magnificently, and Boley fumbled the ball for the first error of the 1930 series.

Bottomley raised a high foul back of first and Bishop, after getting under the ball, dropped it. Earnshaw cast a pained look over his shoulder at the keystone kids behind him, and struck out Bottomley.

Frisch cut loose for second and made it by a slide, picking himself up and scrambling low to third when Cochrane's low throw carried on into center field.

High Foul
Hafey then lifted a high foul near third and Dykes, in full pursuit, slipped and fell, allowing the ball to get away from him.

Earnshaw proceeded to strike out Hafey, apparently deciding it was up to him to get out the side.

The unfortunate Red Birds then went through a somewhat similar performance in the last half of the inning, with this difference: the Athletics scored two runs.

Rhem Out
The end of the scoring and the end of Rhem came in the fourth. Boley rapped a hot one in Gelbert's direction and was safe when the Cardinal's shortstop could not handle it. Earnshaw fanned, but Bishop walked and Dykes blasted a double to deep left center, scoring Boley and Bishop.

There was a telephone call or something for Rhem and he hurried away from there, Lindsey replacing him and retiring Cochrane and Dykes with one pitched ball, Gelbert contributing a snappy one-man double play.

For the next two innings, Lindsey held the A's in check. Sylvester Johnson, who next took up the pitching assignment for the National league champions, walked two men in the seventh, but got the side out without a run and breezed through the eighth, and the A's with their minds intent on an early get-away to St. Louis, hardly tried to hit.

Duck Hunters Given Warning

With the opening of the waterfowl hunting season in California on October 1, the Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture calls attention to the fact that a person may legally kill no more than 15 in the aggregate of all species of wild ducks a day, nor more than 4 wild geese a day, under regulations of the Federal migratory bird treaty act, administered by that bureau.

The Federal regulations also provide for a maximum possession limit of two days' bag. In California, however, the maximum number that may legally be possessed at one time without violating either Federal or state law is 25 wild ducks and 8 wild geese. This is by reason of the fact that the state law limits possession to one day's bag, and the daily bag limit under state law is 25 wild ducks and 8 wild geese. In other words, the Federal limit prevails as to the number of waterfowl that may be killed in a day, while the state limit prevails as to the number that may be held in possession at one time.

S. F. MOVES TO GIVE WORK TO MEN

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—UP—There were three important developments here today in the campaign to decrease the number of men unemployed in San Francisco. Commercial, labor and industrial interests joined with city officials in pledging to underwrite the $850,000 difference between bids of local and eastern shipyards for the construction of four ships for the Panama Mail Steamship company. Provided a local shipyard should be granted the contracts it is estimated work for 4000 men would be opened here.

Directors of the San Francisco chamber of commerce approved immediate construction of the Golden Gate bridge to join San Francisco with Marin county. This would provide an annual payment of $750,000 for the bridge itself and necessitate an increased output of manufacturers of cement, steel and other such supplies.

The Olympic club of San Francisco received a permit for construction of a 23-story class A building for the club, to cost between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000.

Total cost of these three building projects has been estimated at approximately $8,500,000.

In the effort to bring contracts for the four ships here, Acting Mayor Angelo Rossi said the city would give $150,000, business interests were asked to contribute $250,000 over a period of two years, and labor, including the men actually working on the new jobs to furnish the other $250,000.

Immediate construction of the Golden Gate bridge, in addition to opening work for skilled tradesmen, would provide a new high way for the city.

MACK TELLS OF SECOND VICTORY

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2.—UP—George Earnshaw's steady pitching and hits at opportune moments were responsible for the Philadelphia Athletics' 6 to 1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in the second game of the world series today. Connie Mack told the United Press.

A broad smile played over the wrinkled, weather-beaten face of the thin, grey-haired leader of the Athletics as he told his version of the game in his office in the tower room of the park.

"Earnshaw pitched what I'd call a real game today," said Mack. "What you saw him do today you could have seen him do all season. He pitched well in every inning except the second when Watkins made his homer and Mancuso and Gelbert got infield hits. He used a fast ball throughout and threw only one slow ball all day."

Score 11 Runs
Making seven hits count for six runs today, the Athletics have now scored 11 runs on 12 hits in the two games.

"Haven't you been pretty lucky in the pinches?" Mack was asked. "Our success in the pinches," he replied, "is nothing new to us. I'm disappointed when they don't come through in the pinches."

Frankie Frisch's error on Cochrane's easy roller in the third inning was not the break of the game according to Mack. At this point the Athletics were leading 2 to 1, and Rhem was pitching well and had two outs when Frisch booted Cochrane's roller which would have retired the side. Then the A's went on to make two runs, which gave them a comfortable lead.

Thrill Catch
"Frisch's error wasn't the break of the game at all," said the tactician. "We already had the game won."

The thrill of the game to the veteran leader was Jimmy Dykes' catch of Frisch's torrid liner in the eighth inning. Adams had opened the inning with a single to right, but Frisch, who hit the first ball pitched, lined directly into Dykes' hands and Adams was easily doubled off. Frisch would have made, at least a double if Dykes had not caught the ball.

Jimmy Dykes always plays great in an important series," said Mack. "He's a money player."

UNREST IN CUBA MAY BRING DICTATOR

HAVANA, Cuba, Oct. 2.—UP—A formal request by President Gerardo Machado for "suspension of the constitutional guarantee" was presented to the senate in an executive session this evening.

The president's message will be delivered to congress formally at a special session scheduled to be held tomorrow.

Growing unrest in Cuba caused the president's drastic action today. He requested suspension of the guarantees in Havana and vicinity, and elsewhere in Cuba, if it eventually is found necessary.

The closed session of the senate was held tonight to receive the message and to permit senators to discuss the measure prior to the special meeting of congress tomorrow.

A majority vote of congress will be required to permit suspension of constitutional guarantees. It was generally believed in Havana that the president's request would receive the support of congress, however, and that the necessary action would be taken forthwith.

This action would give the president dictatorial powers. It is not equivalent to martial law, but permits the chief executive to restrict the rights of free speech and freedom of public assembly.

REVIVAL OF GOLD MINES SEEN

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 2.—A revival of interest in gold mining, due partially to world-hunger for the yellow metal and a general depression in other minerals, is sending the prospector back into the hills and gulches of the great southwest.

The traditional figure of early southwestern history, his occurements little changed from the days of the first big gold rush, is seen again throughout the prospect country of California, Arizona and Nevada as a colorful adjunct to the men and machinery of the modern mining corporation.

For the renewal of gold digging activity has spread as well as the old operators, and many concerns blasting into mountains of quartz with fresh vigor, report ore discoveries in channels where only the surface was scratched in the feverish days of the Argonauts.

A striking feature of the revival in California's gold fields is the activity in deep placers near the Sacramento river in Butte county, where more than 20 companies are now exploring and developing prehistoric river channels.

Important evidence of the sudden awakening in the gold region lies in the numerous recent transfers of old mining properties. Among others the immense properties of the old Carson Hill Gold Mines, Inc., have changed hands, and several once-famous mines at Bodie are being rejuvenated.

Several deep mining projects have been launched around Goldfield, Nev., where collapse of the silver and copper markets has turned the attention of large operators and leading prospectors of the state to gold possibilities. Here, too, old shafts are being sunk deeper, and famous old mines are drawing more interest than at any time since the World War.

Occasional word of strikes in old gold camps reaches towns in the mining area, and once-famous names such as Searchlight, Bullfrog, Cherry Creek and Silver City again are being bandied about to give flavor to this new fever for gold.

The gold revival is regarded as economic in origin. Gold mining slumped for a decade after the war, due largely to the high cost of labor, machinery and supplies. Too, other minerals were at comparatively high levels.

Then lower operating costs, based on more efficient mining and milling methods, paved the way for renewal of activity. World-wide depression in silver, copper, lead, tungsten and other metals whipped the attention of the operator and prospector back to unfluctuating gold prices and the steady demand for that metal.

So, with the prospector of tradition trading as of old toward the frontiers of the gold country, the big operators are following with machines and processes which not only permit working of deposits once considered practically worthless but which minimize risk and promise to put gold mining on a certain industrial basis.

WASHINGTON TO PREPARE FOR CELEBRATION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—UP—Details are taking form for the celebration extending over a period of 11 months, from January through November, in 1932, to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington. Plans now under way for Washington call for a series of historic exhibitions and pageants, national sporting events, educational meetings and parades in which many foreign nations will take part.

Beginning on January 1, when 10,000 school children will gather on the steps of the capitol building to sing patriotic songs over a world-wide hookup of radio stations, the bicentennial program will continue with one of the greatest and most extensive celebrations the world ever has seen.

February 22 will be observed by the first of several large parades planned for the year. The pageant will depict George Washington portrayed by a man already chosen, coming over the Potomac river from Mount Vernon on his way to accept presidency of the United States. At noon on the same day Congress will assemble to hear an address by President Hoover. That evening notable guests of the city will be entertained with a frontier supper, consisting of venison, corn bread, wild game and other food characteristic of Revolutionary days.

In concluding the year's program an All-American congress of All-American conventions meeting during the year will be held with a view to discussing the future of American policies, both foreign and domestic. In addition, the National Education association will be asked to select a typical American boy who will address the congress on the hopes and futures of the nation's youth.

Another talk was given by Warren Page, who addressed the gathering on "Industrial Missions." Piano solos were also given by Mrs. Follette and Mrs. Page.

The next meeting will be held the first Thursday in November, and will be at the First Presbyterian church.

MAN IS SLAIN ON FERRY BOAT

OAKLAND, Oct. 2.—Harry L. Clark, manufacturer's agent, residing in Los Angeles, was shot and instantly killed on the ferryboat Yerba Buena this afternoon by Victor Russo, 63, a sculptor of San Francisco, who, police believe is demented.

Immediately after the shooting Russo was seized and bound by deckhand. The ferry boat, which was just leaving the Oakland pier, was turned about and Clark's body placed on a special car and taken to Oakland, where it was turned over to the coroner's office.

The shooting occurred at 3:40 o'clock just after the Yerba Buena had pulled out from the Key System pier.

Testing Gun
The boat later proceeded to San Francisco, where Russo was turned over to police from the harbor station.

When questioned about the shooting, Russo said he had never seen Clark before, and "was just testing the gun to see if it worked."

According to the slayer's story, he was gunning for Guido Fornaciario, Oakland sculptor, whom he accused, in a rambling statement of forcing him to sell out a statuette business in Berkeley a year ago.

He told police he had been looking for Fornaciario since that time, and decided today he would go and find him.

Visited Son
"I got on the boat and walked out front. There was a crowd there. I wanted to see if my gun would work. I was testing it when it went off. I saw a man fall. I don't know him. Then the people came and took my gun away," Russo told authorities in broken English.

Clark, an employee of the Walter Scott Co., printing machinery makers of Plainfield, N. Y., had just returned from a visit with his son, John T. Clark, who is a registered student at St. Mary's college.

The slain man visited his son at the college, and after visiting a while in the recorder's office, caught a Sacramento Short Line train which runs to the Key System pier from the college.

Slaying Seen
He just managed to catch the fatal boat, and the shooting occurred shortly after.

The shooting was witnessed by Karl Helm and Earl Robertson, deckhands and W. J. Jenkins, a bootblack.

Jenkins, while Helm and Robertson were disarming Russo, ran to the body of the slain man, who was lying prone on the deck. Coroner's deputies declared tonight that they thought three bullets had struck Clark.

Young Clark had not been informed of his father's death late tonight, and when questioned as to any dealings his father had had with Russo, the youth declared he had never heard the name.

The slayer told police that he did not know the address of Fornaciario, the man for whom he was alleged to have been gunning.

"Somewhere in Oakland," Russo said.

The theory that the slaying was the act of a demented man was advanced by detectives tonight. Russo, when taken into custody talked in a disconnected manner. He was charged with murder tonight.

Chicago Stony Broke Again

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—UP—Chicago was "broke" again tonight.

When police and firemen received their pay checks today the city's corporate funds for payroll were exhausted.

No more money will be available until the state supreme court rules on the validity of a $12,000,000 emergency bond issue passed recently by the legislature. If the ruling is adverse, there will be no money for 15,000 city workers until January.

The situation was precipitated by a general re-zoning of taxable property which held up tax collections for more than two years.

HAVEN FOR CATS FOUND IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—UP—A paradise of hamburger, cream and mice for homeless cats and an employment agency for good raters temporarily out of work has been maintained for eight years in the middle of Chicago's roaring traffic, surrounded by skyscrapers high enough to make even a cat giddy.

In the window of a vacant store at Wacker Drive and Washington street eight fat sleek cats are seen daily sitting in a contented row. They are the well-provided-for wards of Jim (Happy) Fuller, the janitor of the building who believes nothing is too good for his pets.

Board for the cats daily requires 75 cents of Fuller's salary and it goes to buy milk for the kittens and hamburger for the cats, with plenty of salmon on Sunday.

"When I die," said Happy, "I hope they bury me over the Northwestern tracks. That's where I've buried the little cats that died these last eight years."

Happy believes he has raised a hundred cats during the years he has maintained his asylum for feline wayfarers. For some of them, chiefly the best raters, he has found other homes where their talents may be of use.

"I've given the new opera building two fine raters and I must have given the telephone company a dozen for their building. I stay up all night the night the kittens come, but I can't help much."

Happy makes his home in the building with the cats. He has trained them not to molest the things in his room.

"You can teach cats just like children," he contends. "All these cats know their name and they all ramble about the loop at night."

"Dick," called Happy.

Dick, a 20-pound, eight-year-old, jumped to his shoulder.

"Teddies, Cockie, Nellie, Tommie, Midget..."

Obediently all the cats responded except Midget who was engrossed with an elaborate trapeze of rubber rings and balls.

"I don't know what ails that kitten," Happy complained. "She won't mind worth a cent."

"I got to liking cats during the Spanish-American war," said Happy. "I was with the 3rd regiment, company 8, from Somerville, N. J. There was a cat with our outfit and it was my job to feed her. She used to go into battle as brave as any soldier. People can learn a lot from cats."

Happy is inclined to believe in reincarnation, contending that many cats have bigger and more generous souls than people.

"Maybe in the next world we'll all be cats," he said.

THE WOMAN OF IT

By Marguerite Moores Marshall

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

“WHAT new contribution,” somebody is always asking, scornfully, “are women making to political life? What are they doing, since they got the vote, that men haven’t done?”

Representative Ruth Bryan Owen of Florida is scheduled at the next session of Congress to give an interesting answer to these questions. She has drafted and will introduce a bill providing for the creation of a Department of Home and Child in the President’s Cabinet. No man politician has started anything like that. It’s a safe guess that no man would.

Contrary to the law of the sea, the law in Washington often seems to be, “Women and children last.” In the statutes, in the administrative machinery, in the minds of men in office, apparently every other interest is of more importance.

When American women were conducting an uphill fight for the Sheppard-Towner bill—the law providing a federal appropriation equal to that raised by any state for guarding the health of its women and children—it was pointed out repeatedly that Uncle Sam spent more money to protect the health of pigs than to protect the health of children.

In all, $16,000,000 a year is disbursed by the government for health work among livestock (which does not include live babies). Only $1,000,000, even under the Sheppard-Towner act, was the federal appropriation to be divided among the states for health work for mothers and babies. Since the act expired more than a year ago a successor to it has not been passed, despite the efforts of the National League of Women Voters and many other prominent women’s organizations.

And yet maternal mortality is higher in the United States than in any other civilized country! This is but one instance of how the interests of women and children fare at Washington. Ruth Bryan Owen thinks the time has come for a change of focus. In her own phrase, governmental attention to home and child should be on a “parity of dignity” with agriculture, commerce and national defense.

Therefore she will propose the new Cabinet Department of Home and Child, “to promote and foster education, home and family life and child welfare.” The department would be authorized to conduct experiments and surveys in health hygiene, infancy and pre-natal care, education and training, neglect, dependency, delinquency, child labor and home economics. The department would consolidate such activities as the following:

The office of education in the Department of the Interior. The children’s bureau of the Department of Labor. Child health and home sanitation functions of the public health service in the Treasury Department. Child education functions of the Federal Board for Vocational Education.

The Bureau of Home Economics of the Department of Agriculture. The department probably and logically would be headed by a woman. To many feminine voting citizens, it seems high time that they have a representative of their sex in the President’s Cabinet. Why should a woman, Margaret Bonfield, be secretary of labor in London and no American woman hold a position of like importance in Washington?

HERE, it seems to us, is a Congresswoman’s fine crusade for women, for their welfare and their dignity, a crusade which should enlist women’s gratitude and cordial support. Here, if Representative Ruth Bryan Owen can carry through her plan, will be a tangible monument to woman’s progress in politics, power. Here will be a woman office-holder’s practical service to women, children and the American home—a refreshing contrast to the glib lip-service offered heretofore by so many men politicians.

EAST WIND

Ah, I have loved a many, And many have loved me. A day, a week, a month, a year—in the end we both were free.

And sometimes when the east wind sighs, I think of dark-browed Jim;

CA DISH CA DAY

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

One of the readers of this department would like to know just what the difference is between a ragout and a stew. It has become a matter of some contention in her family. “When I serve lamb stew for dinner at home the family acts as if I had put them on war rations or established a special economy day,” she writes. “But when we dine out I find that both my husband and my son occasionally order a ragout of lamb, and I must confess that I cannot see any difference.”

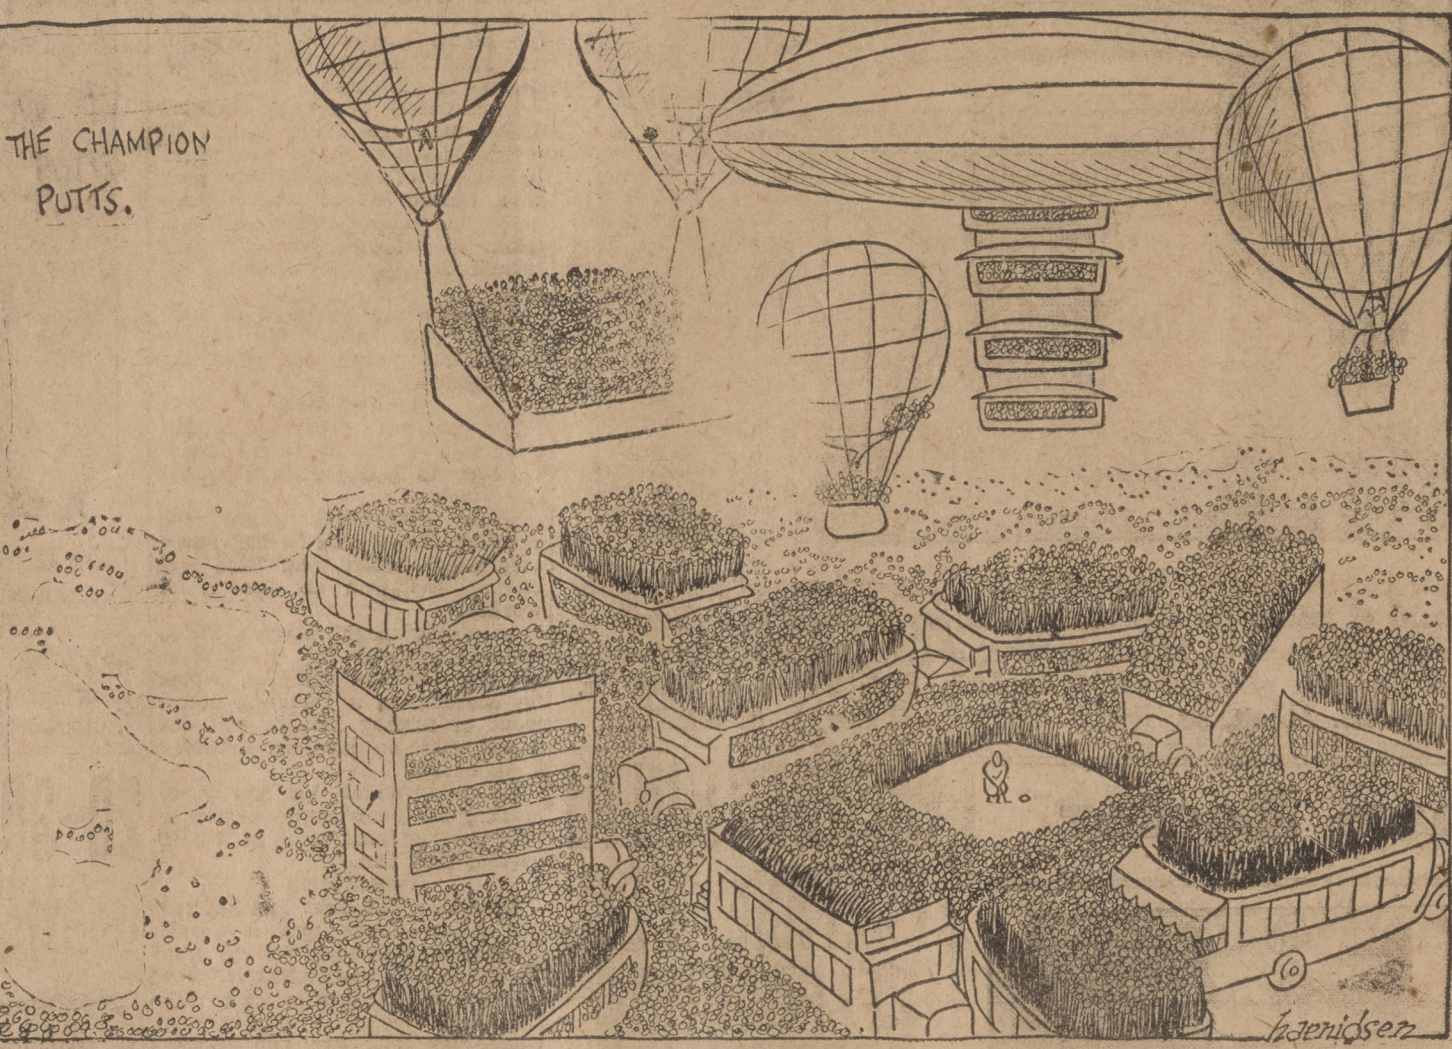

If our correspondent had only gone into details and told us her method of making stew we might have been able to tell her once what was lacking, but since she didn’t we have to guess. Stews and ragouts are pretty much the same, except that the ragout presupposes a number of vegetables and seasonings, particularly the latter. Possibly the dividing line between the stews she makes and the ragouts rests in the method of cooking the meat. The meat should be cut in cubes of uniform size and well browned before liquid and vegetables are added, for if the raw meat is put in water to cook the result will be a colorless, flavorless and pallid concoction. Here is a recipe for ragout of lamb that is savory and tempting: RAGOUT OF LAMB 1½ pounds lamb, cut from shoulder or breast 2 large, or 3 medium-sized carrots 1 white turnip 4 large, or 5 very small potatoes 1 cup green peas, shelled, or lima beans 1 cup small onions 1 tablespoon lemon juice 2 tablespoons chopped parsley 1 bay leaf 3 tablespoons Worcestershire Water or stock Flour Cut the meat in cubes of uniform size, wipe them with salt and pepper, and brown on all sides in lamb fat. Cut the carrot and turnip in slices about one-half inch thick and quarter the potatoes. When the meat is thoroughly browned, add three cups of meat stock or canned bouillon, or water in which three bouillon cubes have been dissolved. Add the vegetables, lemon juice, parsley, bay leaf and Worcestershire and simmer until vegetables are tender. Remove the bay leaf and thicken the gravy, allowing one level tablespoon of flour for each cup of liquid. Add enough water to the flour to make a thin paste before adding it to the meat stock. Add salt and pepper to taste and serve very hot.

A Smart New Scheme for Girls

By Alma Zais

PLAIDS AND SIMPLICITY ARE GIVEN MOST MODERN SETTING IN THIS UNIQUE GROUP FOR A GIRL'S ROOM

Dear Miss Zais: Our young daughter, fifteen, has been such a good little helper to me in the home and seems to take such pleasure in having her own room that her father and I have decided to redecorate it for her coming birthday. Could you therefore give us some suggestions that would be attractive without being extravagant?

The room has been furnished with old pieces—a golden oak dresser and chest, a walnut chair and a stuffed chair, a brass bed and cedar chest. Nothing is pretty in an up-to-date way, but it was always well kept. For the floor we have been using a slightly mottled blue rug and with it a blue appliqued bedspread, criss-cross curtains of dotted net. There is one table lamp with a flower print shade, and on the walls a few photographs and another flower print. I think the thing that disappoints me most is the “old” look of this room. It seems awfully grown up for my little daughter, yet I do not exactly picture her in a “girly” room, either. We are prepared to get new furniture providing you can suggest something attractive that is also reasonably inexpensive. If not, will you just give ideas for doing over the old room to make it as pretty as possible? A floor plan is enclosed. The room is rather small, you see, only 10 feet wide and 12 long, but it has two nice windows. We will thank you very much indeed for your help.

Inexpensive Plans That Should Please Girls at Home or at College

ONCE upon a time the quite logical thing for Mrs. J’s little home making daughter (who is not of the frivolous “girly” type), would have been to tuck her away in a quaint early American room with chintz curtains and prim prints on the walls. . . . always a pretty and satisfying scheme for those whose tastes are not elaborate.

But today we do not seem to want to “commit her” to such a prudent scheme. She is so rare. . . . that willing little helper. We should like to see

SCALED DIAGRAM OF ARRANGEMENT

A Home Notion Counter

WHEN one realizes the money and concern that can be spared by having a ready supply of pins, buttons, hooks and eyes, fasteners, various colored threads, and other notions on hand, surely there can be no harm or objection to having a miniature notion shop in your home. The initial expense is comparatively small.

One complete drawer or cupboard shelf can be put aside for just such items. Each item can have its own section and with these things carefully arranged, a quick survey is all that would be needed to replenish the supply. You do not have to wait for the loose button or hook or fastener to come off. Make it secure at the first hint of pending loss. If it does decide to beat you to it and lose itself, then with all the necessities on hand, the needed item can be attached.

That business of not putting off for tomorrow what can be done today holds well here too. There is no time like the present for adjusting these small details and surely with a ready supply on hand there can be no need for delay.

Making Antique Pictures

DID you ever try making antique pictures? It is easy and they are charming. Done perfectly and with the right prints, might readily enough be mistaken for genuinely old ones.

This is the process: Select any print so that it has nothing on the back cut a way margin and paste it evenly on a piece of thin board, exactly the size of the picture. Any board will do but a quarter-inch one is generally most satisfactory, or an artist’s stretched canvas will answer if you wish to have the expense of it. Now then, shellac your picture with white shellac, let dry, which it will in a few minutes, then lay over it very smoothly a piece of cheesecloth of an ecru tone. Pull the cheesecloth around the edges of the board or frame and tack so as to preserve the perfect smoothness in front. Then shellac the cheesecloth and your antique is done.

The cheesecloth, usually comes in a shabby white tone, but dipped in cold tea and dried it takes on a shade to blend beautifully with the shellac.

THE COMMITTEE ON PROGRESS

THE Soviet Government discusses progress in planting Communism in America:

Scene—Head office in Moscow. The board of directors’ sub-committee on discontent is in session.

COMRADE IVAN—Well, comrades, what is the good word from America? COMRADE ALEXIS—We are doing fine. We just lost $1,500,000 in December wheat.

COMRADE MISCHA—How is Comrade Ingultz doing in New York? COMRADE NICKOLAI—Comrade Ingultz has done wonderful work. He purchased 8,000 front seats to the Broadway hits and dumped them in the cut-rate agencies for half price.

IVAN—That is good. We shall soon have America groveling at our feet.

ALEXIS—In Pittsburgh Comrade Eblevitz bought a million postage stamps, but he has not succeeded in depressing the prices yet.

MISCHA—Give him time. They will soon be selling special delivery stamps for 9 cents. Just wait.

NICKOLAI—What other good tidings are there of Russia’s cause? IVAN—Our secret agent in Idaho reports that Borah is yet in favor of us. He is still letting his hair grow.

ALEXIS—A nice guy, Borah. What are our fall campaign plans for the cause? MISCHA—Everything is Jacob, according to a cable. Chain grocery stores are expanding all over the United States. That means the red front is gaining day by day.

NICKOLAI—Not only that, but our secret agents are urging more fire stations for America. These too are painted our glorious red.

IVAN—What of Communism’s red flag? ALEXIS—There is progress. Four thousand, two hundred and nineteen closing out sales of jewelry opened in America this month. That means the red flag is waving over 4,219 auctions now going on inside.

MISCHA—Glorious! We should send more speakers for Communism to America at once.

NICKOLAI—Yes, and more soap boxes for them to speak on—but first be sure you unpack all the soap.

IVAN—Are the people of America in discontent yet? ALEXIS—Well, last reports said the proletariat was rushing to buy World’s Series tickets for $6.00 apiece. But our agents are carefully trying to convince them they can see better through the knotholes in the fence.

MISCHA—That is fine. What other into his powder plant and not worry.

Now there’s a revolution in Chile. Is South America a continent or a squirrel cage?

Congressman Celler proposes printing advertisements on the face of our postage stamps. But just printing them on the other side would put the product on everyone’s tongue.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said:

"One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

ENTIRE PROBE TO BE MADE OF BOXING

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 2.—UP—Appointment of Allen Bixby, director of the state department of military and veterans affairs, to conduct a careful and complete investigation into boxing conditions in California was announced here tonight by Gov. C. C. Young.

"This appointment is made to determine what steps should be taken to correct evils heretofore connected with professional boxing and to make such recommendations as appear to be wise or expedient," the governor said.

Recommendation of the San Francisco grand jury that Percy Irwin, referee of the match between Max Baer and Frankie Campbell which caused Campbell's death, will be passed on to the State Athletic commission, the state executive said.

Regarding the recommendation of that jury that he request resignation of Charles F. Traug, state athletic commissioner, Gov. Young said:

"I don't deem it proper to carry this out unless and until a full and fair investigation demonstrates this request as reasonable or fair."

The governor said changes in the law creating the athletic commission urged by the grand jury must come by initiative.

He concluded by remarking on charges of the jurors that gamblers extend their influence over the boxing game.

"If this is true it unquestionably points to the doom of legalized boxing unless abuses charged are corrected," he said. "Lovers of clean sport will not tolerate a condition wherein interests of the gambling fraternity promote or permit crookedness or brutality in a boxing contest."

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR APE BOY ARE CONDUCTED HERE

embalming was done, the remains being condemned to the flames less than three hours after the penitentiary physician had pronounced Northcott dead.

Newgent is planning to remain in Oakland three or four days, and then go to Canada, where he hopes to uncover evidence that may aid Mrs. Northcott.

The father, broken hearted will turn to Riverside today, carrying with him only a white carnation, as a reward for the months of unceasing effort he has put forth in a futile attempt to save his son from the hangman's noose.

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Oct. 2.—UP—With a white handkerchief bound tightly over his eyes and with two guards supporting his trembling body, Gordon Stewart Northcott died on the gallows at San Quentin today, for the murder of three young boys at his Wineville ranch.

Feeble protests and moans came from the killer's lips. "Don't, don't do that to me," he was heard to mumble as guards trussed his feet together and slipped the black cloth over his head.

All the while Larry Newgent, Los Angeles evangelist and Northcott's spiritual advisor, stood directly in front of the gallows repeating the first few verses of John XIV. "Let not your heart be troubled."

Ape Boy Moans

Northcott, in a state bordering on complete collapse, just moaned, utterly oblivious of his surroundings.

Just before going to his death the Riverside slayer indulged in a characteristic Northcott gesture and "confessed" again to the murders of Walter Collins, Nelson and Louie Winslow and Jose Gonzales. He named his father and a nephew, Sanford Clark, as having participated in the crimes.

His confession was much like all other similar documents prepared by Northcott. It conflicted in several instances and is not being viewed seriously by authorities.

Trap Sprung

At 10:09 A. M. the trap was sprung in response to a signal from Warden James B. Holohan, and at 10:21, Dr. L. L. Stanley, prison physician, pronounced life extinct.

As the crowd of 154 witnesses, exclusive of the many guards, began to break up and start for the stairway leading from the death house, the dangling, lifeless body of the slayer of small boys was cut down.

Northcott himself requested that he be blindfolded, as the last vestige of boldness vanished when the final moment came. He was made such a request, the warden said.

Mother Mute

During the slow ticking minutes that her son was hanging limply from the gallows, Mrs. Sarah Louise Northcott, stood at a window in the recreation hall of the women's quarters, noticing no one. She was watching for a messenger that she was sure would come from the governor. "They only hang on Friday at San Quentin," she had been told.

But while she watched and hoped, Gordon Stewart Northcott was dangling lifeless at the end of a hempen rope.

Fate Unknown

No one dared tell her the truth. "Let someone else tell her, I won't," said Miss Josephine Hackson, matron.

Northcott's last few hours of life were not without incident.

Appeals Lost

Northcott was hanged for the slaying of Lewis and Nel on Winslow and an unidentified Mexican boy, who was assertedly victims of his degeneracy at his Wineville chicken ranch.

He was convicted on February 7, 1929 and sentenced to hang four days later, by Superior Judge George Freeman, at Riverside.

Appeals to the State Supreme court and Appellate court were fruitless.

HOOVER MAKES PLEA FOR FAITH

porary setbacks but the spirit of this people will never brook defeat.

This depression will be shortened largely to the degree that you feel you can prudently, by counsel and specific assistance, instill into your clients from industry, agriculture and commerce, a feeling of assurance.

Enjoy Misery

"There are a few folks," Hoover said, "in business and several folks in the political world who resent the notion that things will ever get better and who wish to enjoy our temporary misery."

"To recount to these persons the progress of cooperation between the people and the government in amelioration of this situation, or to mention that we are suffering far less than other countries, or that savings are piling up in the banks, or that our people are paying off installment purchase, that abundant capital is now prescribing for new ventures and employment, only inspires the unkind retort that we should fix our gaze upon the unhappy features of the decline."

This first speech in a series of four Hoover is to deliver in the next four days as his indirect part in the Republican campaign to retain control of congress in the November elections was largely a bugle call to the bankers to instill optimism in the people.

Asks Faith

Some government and private aid is being and can further be given to help restore the prosperous plane of business, but what the bankers should give the people is faith, he repeatedly insisted.

Two suggestions for government aid were the only material recommendations made by the executive. He suggested in one sentence "an inquiry might develop that our system of taxes upon capital gains directly encourages inflation by strangling the free movement of land and securities." Later, in two sentences, the president deplored the restrictions which the transportation act places upon railroads restraining them from enlarging their construction programs during depressed periods. He indicated he would favor correcting these matters, probably directing the treasury to conduct the investigation into the capital gains tax recommending to the next congress a change in the transportation act.

The real immediate need as Hoover saw it is psychological, rather than material and he pointed out three ways, as follows, in which the bankers could help.

Wise Credits

By using their office as economic adviser of American business to warn people against contagious over-optimism as well as pessimism, so as to keep business on a more even mental keel in times of plenty as well as a times of want.

Wise direction of credits, the flow of which can accelerate or retard the movement of business. Cooperation with the federal reserve system to maintain an ample supply of money at low rates.

Sees Recovery

Already there are hopeful signs of recovery, the president maintained. The fundamental basis of prosperity has not been disturbed; home consumption can by confidence be restored to 97 percent normal; bankers have brought the credit situation through the storm unimpaired.

The depression is world-wide, Hoover pointed out at the outset. Cheap coffee, silver, zinc and copper prices have had an effect in South America, India and China, he said, alluding also to the drop in basic commodity prices of other nations, which he suggested has produced "some political unrest."

Over speculation contributed to our downfall, he added.

But Hoover contended this country has suffered far less than the others. He told how the government's program for public works has been expanded, how credit assistance has been dealt the farmers, how immigration has been further restricted to aid the situation. Business itself has lent a helping hand, by "sustaining wages, distributing employment and expediting heavy construction."
